Purpose

Dear University Cricket Club Players,

The UCC Handbook has been created as a reference document to enable you to become the best possible player and member of the University of WA Cricket Club. The handbook contains a wide range of information and can be used as a first point of call for many of the questions about the club you may have. This includes details on selection criteria, where to find club policies and the code of conduct, playing fee requirements and details on club uniforms and training gear.

The club's committee and coaching team has had a busy off season to ensure the club continues to improve the service we provide to our members and the UWA community. This handbook reflects some of that work, and I respectfully request you read this handbook before the season commences.

Kind regards,

Mitchell Rosher,

President

Club History

The University of Western Australia commenced courses in 1913 and the UCC was established in the same year, entering the WACA competition in the 1913-14 season. With the University buildings in Irwin Street, Perth, the club had no home ground but shared the WACA ground with the East Perth and West Perth clubs. The first captain was Philip Le Couteur, a Victorian Rhodes Scholar and Oxford Blue who was the first lecturer in philosophy at the University.

UWA's move to the Crawley campus at the end of 1930 helped to rejuvenate the club, which now had its own ground, then known as Crawley or University Oval and later James Oval.

The club's most successful period was during the 1950s and 1960s, with the first three of its eight First Grade premierships coming within four seasons (1951-52, 1953-54 and 1954-55). These sides were captained by Robin Gray, the inaugural lecturer in physical education and experienced Sydney grade cricketer who was nearly twice the age of many of the other players but had outstanding leadership qualities. Amongst the prominent players in these teams were a number of club "legends", such as openers John Rutherford and Laurie Sawle, middle-order batsmen John Forsaith and Eric Strauss, pace bowlers Ray Strauss and Geoff Forsaith and wicketkeeper Geoff Fernie. Ray Strauss took 697 First Grade wickets for UCC during his long career, a record that is unlikely to be surpassed, and like Rutherford and Sawle played regularly for WA during the 1950s. Rutherford later became the first WA player to represent Australia in a Test match.

Further First Grade premierships were won in 1963-64, 1965-66, 1967-68 and 1974-75, all with John Inverarity in the team, in the latter three as captain. During this period Inverarity, Jock Irvine, Tony Mann and Rod Marsh were regular WA players, with Inverarity also a successful WA captain and Australian Test representative.

After such a period of unparalleled success the club started to struggle as the WACA tightened its rules so that although undergraduates were bound to play for University, graduates could only represent the club if granted a clearance from their district club. There were also some concerted attempts in the early 1980s to remove UCC altogether from the WACA competition. The club was forced into litigation to uphold its constitutional right to exist (which was successful), and also had to withstand an attempt to amalgamate it with the Nedlands club.

Nine Australian Test players have appeared for UCC at some stage of their careers: John Rutherford, Laurie Mayne, John Inverarity, Tony Mann, Rod Marsh, Wally Edwards, Graeme Wood, Chris Rogers and Ashton Agar. Ken MacLeay has been an Australian one-day representative, while Jock Irvine was in an Australian touring team to South Africa.

A team of the 20th century was selected to coincide with the launch of the UCC Foundation in 2001, and consisted of the following players: John Rutherford, Rick Charlesworth, John Inverarity (captain), Graeme Wood, Jock Irvine, Rod Marsh, Ken MacLeay, Tony Mann, Keith Punch, Ray Strauss and Geoff Forsaith. Laurie Sawle was named as 12th man and Robin Gray as the coach.

After many seasons without success, the club has shown signs of rejuvenation in recent years, again with qualification rules being further relaxed to permit players without any university association to play for University. After a gap of 43 years, the First Grade side reached the grand final in 2017-18, only to lose to Claremont-Nedlands. It qualified for the finals again during the unfinished 2019-20 season, and were beaten finalists in the T20 competition. During the past decade Ashton Agar, Will Bosisto and David Moody have been regular first-class players.

While many First Grade players have had notable cricket careers, there are plenty of First Grade as well as lower grade UCC cricketers who have become just as prominent in professional and civic circles.

Perhaps the best known of these is Bob Hawke, Australia's Prime Minister from 1983 to 1991. The fact that most club members are of a similar age contributes to its particular character; and as the club is for the most part run by the players themselves, it has always provided great opportunities for them to take on responsibility and learn management skills at a young age.

In its centenary year of 2013 the club was proud to boast that the national chairmen of both the Cricket Australia Board (Wally Edwards) and the AFL Commission (Mike Fitzpatrick) were ex-UCC cricketers, while John Inverarity and Rod Marsh were on Cricket Australia's national selection panel. Several years later the chairman of the WACA Board, Lachlan Henderson, was also a former player with University. The club is proud to say that ex-player, ex-coach and current committee member Christian Bauer is currently on the WACA board and is also the Chairman of the Western Australian District Cricket Council (WADCC).

Player Responsibilities

Training

Tuesday:	Full Club Training	4:30pm - 6:30pm
Wednesday:	High Performance Squad Training (Invite Only)	4:30pm - 6:30pm
Thursday:	Full Club Training and Selection Night	4:30pm - 7:00pm

The University Cricket Club expects its players to train regularly. Attendance at training makes up one of the four selection criteria, and will be monitored throughout the season and taken into account when assessing a player's appropriate grade.

Training takes place at James Oval, where the club provides some of the best training facilities and access to one of the most comprehensive coaching structures in the State. In return for providing these resources, the Club expects players to take full advantage of them when coming to training. This includes developing specific objectives on what the player hopes to achieve when attending each individual training session.

The club values fielding as equally important to bowling and batting. In a game where individual skill makes up a substantial proportion of match play, fielding remains one of the best opportunities for a player to demonstrate their commitment, mental strength, fitness and skill to their teammates. As such, it is expected that players will spend similar amounts of time in developing their fielding skills, as well as their batting and bowling skills.

We are a Premier Cricket Club, participating in one of the strongest amateur cricket competitions in the world. As such, players are expected to take personal responsibility for their own training to ensure they get the most out of themselves, to give themselves the best chance of success throughout the season.

Selection

Performance Metrics
Grade	Format	Target	Role	Metrics
1st / 2nd	50 overs	225 runs	Batter	Average:	30+
				Strike Rate:	75+
	90 overs	-	Bowler	Economy Rate:	<4
			Batter	Average:	35+
3rd / 4th	45 overs	180 runs		Strike Rate:	50+
			Bowler	Average:	<25
		Economy Rate:	<3
	80 overs	-	Batter	Average:	25+
				Strike Rate:	70+
		Bowler	Economy Rate:	<3.5
	Batter	Average:	25+
	Bowler	Economy Rate:	<2.5
		Average:	<20

Note: successfully meeting these metrics indicates you are playing your role. If you aim for higher level cricket, you need to not only meet, but substantially exceed these numbers to demonstrate you are playing a grade below what your contribution on the field demands.

The University Cricket Club has 4 selection criteria:

- (a) Fitness
- (b) Fielding
- (c) Training Attendance
- (d) Match Day Role / Match Day Performances

Each player selected will have satisfied the coaches and captains that they have earned selection in their grade by reference to these four criteria. If you have not been selected in the grade you hoped, you only need to look at how you stack up against these benchmarks as compared to other players selected to determine where to improve to move up the grades.

The University Cricket Club values transparency in selection, and coaches and captains are usually happy to discuss where you need to improve in order to play higher level cricket. However, at times it can be more effective for players to engage in some honest self reflection, identify areas for development in their own game and set out a plan to improve at training. The club makes available to players some of the best resources in the State, but it is on the player to utilise these assets effectively to develop their game and get the most out of themselves throughout the course of their cricketering career.

Match Day

1st / 2nd Grade	One Day Match	Arrival Time: 9:10 AM	Match Start: 10:30 AM
	Two Day Match	Arrival Time: 10:20 AM	Match Start: 11:40 AM
4th / 3rd Grade	One Day Match	Arrival Time: 10:20 AM	Match Start: 11:40 AM
	Two Day Match	Arrival Time: 11:20AM	Match Start: 12:40AM

Players will arrive on time, with the correct uniform, ready to warm up. Please check the fixtures the night before to determine where you are going, how long it will take you to get there and what time you need to leave. Control the controllables.

It is expected that all players of the University Cricket Club display teamwork, respect, honesty and perseverance on and off the field. On match days this means playing within the laws of the game, respecting the umpires' decisions, offering your hand to the opposition at the end of each game and managing your frustrations and temper irrespective of the state of the game and your personal performance. The match day does not conclude with the end of the match. It is expected that win, lose or draw, you spend at an absolute minimum half an hour to help your captain finish his off-field duties and socialise with your teammates at the end of the game. This not only helps you decompress from what can at times be a long day in the field, but also helps your teammates to leave in good spirits, irrespective of the match result.

Club Commitments

The University Cricket Club is a volunteer organisation. An enormous amount of work goes on behind the scenes to ensure every player can get on the park each weekend and perform at their best. As such, you are expected to treat the club with the level of respect it deserves. This includes volunteering for fundraising opportunities when available, assisting committee members, captains and coaches when they need a hand, attending club functions and generally supporting the club where you can.

Club Policies

The Club has a range of policies in place to protect players, supporters, sponsors, UWA and all other stakeholders. These include the:

- Code of Conduct;
- Communications Policy;
- Tribunal Policy; and
- Conflict of Interest Policy.

It is highly recommended that players review each of these policies, particularly the UWACC Code of Conduct, to further understand the expectations of players both on and off the field. These policies are available online for review on the club website at <https://www.uwacricet.com/clubpolicies>.

Player Welfare Subcommittee

The UCC's Player Welfare program sub-committee consists of Perry Allen, Joshua Sharpe and Damien Sweet. The Player Welfare support program is another layer of player support offered by the UCC. This program will aim to provide a safe outlet for players seeking support for their mental health, life skills and general well-being. This support service is offered to all players and staff, discussions held will remain confidential and provide a conduit to appropriate support services, both on campus and beyond.

If you would like to access support services, please do hesitate to contact Perry Allen on 0431 256 613 directly, or via the UCC player welfare email at UCCplayerwelfare@gmail.com. A member of the subcommittee will contact you promptly once you have taken steps to get in touch.
